LOCATION

Vogt-Kölln-Strasse is located in the Stellingen district, in a so-called urbanization zone. The commercial structure is characterized by a large number of commercial areas of different sizes, which are either located in the vicinity of the major transport infrastructure (motorway, Kieler Straße, railroad) or have grown historically. Overall, the commercial structure is heterogeneous. In addition to the mixed-use inner-city quarters, which are used on a small scale by craft businesses and service companies, there are also larger commercial locations in Eimsbüttel.

DISTRICT

With an area of approx. 50 km² and 276.222 inhabitants [as of 2023] Eimsbüttel is both the smallest and the most densely populated of Hamburg's districts. Thanks to its central location and broad range of attractive leisure facilities, Eimsbüttel is not only a coveted residential neighbourhood, but also a popular location for innovative companies from the services sector and the creative industries. Among new entrepreneurs and young companies, there is a growing demand for use concepts that are characterised by a mix of functions, social openness, public spaces, as well as urban architecture and urban culture. Eimsbüttel is also home to Hamburg's largest university with numerous institutes and research facilities.

As a business location, the Eimsbüttel district is shaped by a fairly high share of high-density and resident-friendly commercial estates. As a city of short distances, Hamburg offers many advantages, especially for tradesmen and service providers: distances between one's home and workplace as well as to customers are short, while at the same time almost all locations are well connected to the national motorway network. And there is still untapped potential – especially with a view to utilising and redensifying existing structures. A good example here is the Meistermeile complex at Offakamp in the quarter of Lokstedt: with its stacked building design, it offers plenty of workspaces as well as synergy and collaboration opportunities for many companies and professionals despite taking up relatively little space. Production and logistics companies with larger space needs are primarily located in Hamburg's outer districts with excellent transport links and close proximity to Hamburg Airport. In the inner district of Eimsbüttel, some of the main players include Beiersdorf AG, the SIGNAL IDUNA Group, the HanseMerkur Insurance Group, VELUX Deutschland GmbH, Bode Chemie GmbH, and Norddeutscher Rundfunk.
