DISTRICT

Being home to 455,185 residents [as of 2023] Wandsbek is the most populous of Hamburg's districts. It is located in the north-east and is embedded in extensive nature reserves. Here you can find peace and quiet by the water, use the well-developed network of hiking and cycling trails along the Wandse and Alster rivers and even go horse-riding along the bridle paths of the Rahlstedt quarter. This district is as green as it is busy, a traditional and sought-after industry location and is popular among enterprises of all types. The mix of sector-specific expertise and high quality of life makes Wandsbek an attractive location for living and working in an urban setting.

Wandsbek's commercial locations are quite heterogeneous and include anything from corporate head offices to manufacturers, some of these with a strong focus on R&I, and a colourful mix of innovative business parks and small-scale trade businesses. Companies with a global repute include the automotive spare parts manufacturer MEYLE AG, the intralogistics manufacturer Jungheinrich AG, the drugstore chain IWAN BUDNIKOWSKY GmbH & Co. KG, the retail and services company Otto GmbH & Co. KG, as well as Olympus Deutschland (medical technology) and Eppendorf AG (life sciences). Thanks to the district's high density, attractive mixed-use concepts have also emerged on a smaller scale, e.g. in the form of commercial centres and coworking spaces, adding innovative strength to the district and beyond.
